LESSONS/COACHING

Each student receives four lessons on their major instrument, voice, or in composition. Those who choose to enroll in secondary study will receive three lessons or classes in the minor field. Students should bring at least three pieces for study in their major: one thoroughly polished and ready to perform, one that can be prepared for performance, and one that is new. Students taking a minor instrument should bring 2 pieces to study. Counselor practice coaches are available to help students develop good techniques and concentration.

Composition Majors: Please bring digital files of all previous compositions. All composition students will participate in the Composers' Workshop and New Music Ensemble.

Voice, Piano and Guitar Majors will also participate in daily classes that focus on their area of study. Voice majors will perform vignettes or scenes from a musical or operetta in a final recital.

CHAMBER MUSIC

Instrumental chamber groups and vocal ensembles rehearse daily, receive at least four coaching sessions, and have opportunities to perform in recitals at the end of the session. In late April or early May, instrumentalists will receive chamber music assignments. The music is assigned early, so that it can be well-learned and studied with private teachers ahead of time. Each instrumentalist is required to provide his/her own score and part and is required to prepare the music in advance. Music that is not well-prepared may result in the student being removed from the ensemble by the ensemble coach.

(Note: voice chamber, brass chamber, wind ensemble, and orchestra will be assigned music once the session has begun.)

THEORY

A theory placement test is included in your acceptance packet paperwork. This test is not a judgement of your musicianship or musical ability. It is to place you in the appropriate level of music theory instruction : It is very important that we get an accurate impression of your theory fluency so that we may place you in a class level that will be most helpful to you.

AUDITIONS

Each student will audition on Monday morning, June 21, for seating placement in large ensembles. Seating auditions will include a solo of choice, scales and sight reading. Those not in large ensembles (pianists, guitarists, and singers) will also audition for their department faculty with one or two solo pieces. Composition majors will have a class during auditions.

SELECTION FOR HONORS RECITALS AND MASTER CLASSES

Selection of students for master classes and honors recitals is at the recommendation of the private instructor or coach. Auditions on June 21st will serve as a preliminary hearing for selection. Students who wish to be considered for one of these opportunities must inform their instructor at their first lesson, and demonstrate at that time that the piece they wish to perform is performance ready. Memorization is required for piano, strings, and voice; memorization is highly recommended for woodwinds, brass and percussion.

LARGE ENSEMBLES

All major ensembles are featured on the final concert on July 3rd.

Choir—All students participate in an hour of choir daily. Through singing, students refine musicianship skills and are exposed to repertoire of many styles.

Orchestra—Instrumentalists participate in orchestra every afternoon and perform works for both full and string orchestra. Seating is determined by audition on the first day of the session.

Wind Ensemble—Woodwinds, brass, and percussion participate in wind ensemble for an hour almost daily, focusing specifically on instrumental techniques and repertoire for wind ensemble. Seating is determined by audition on the first day of the session.

RECITALS

Student Chamber & Small Ensemble/Composition Recitals and the Final Concert take place during the final days of the session. Please refer to the Concert Calendar in this Guidebook regarding dates and times. Additional performance opportunities will take place during the session in numerous informal performance classes, as well as master classes and honors recitals.
